SPECIAL SESSION IN OCTOBER

EARLIER DATE THAN NOV. 9 IS DETERMINED UPON.

Attempt to Prepare a Financial Bill That Will Secure Popular Support Ratification of Cuban Rectprocity Treaty to Be Secured First of All.

OYSTER BAY, Aug. 13.-The conference between President Roosevelt and the Republican members of the sub-committee the Senate (mmittee on Finance, which began at Saga, ore Hill last night and was continued into the small hours of the morning, led to the determination that the extraordinary session of Congress, which was scheduled to be called on Monday, Nov. 9, should be convened early in October. While the session is to be called primarily for the enactment of legislation making operative the Cuban reciprocity treaty, financial matters are going to have a place of the greatest importance on the calendar and it is in consideration of this fact that the date of convening may be brought forward two or three weeks.

The Administration leaders, it is said. want to see the proposed financial measures pushed through the coming session without fail and, although no serious opposition is anticipated, if the sub-committee succeeds to drafting the sort of bill it contemplates. they are desirous that ample time be taken for a thorough discussion of the measure. The men at the head of the Administration. is said, are anxious to have all currency legislation out of the way before the meeting of the national conventions in June.

The exact nature of the conference at Sagamore Hill was explained here authoritatively this morning. It related rather, it was said, to the methods of procedure in preparing the proposed bill than to the subject matter of the measure.

It was announced that no bill will be formally and definitely drawn until consultations have been held with the leaders in the Senate and the House, Democrats as well as Republicans, and with bankers and other authorities in finance in all parts is the purpose of the sub-committee to frame a measure which will appeal to popular support rather than to party strength, and which will commend itself generally to the present needs of the country. The members of the committee and the President appreciate the difficulty of drafting such a measure, but all, and particularly Mr. Roosevelt, believe that it can be accomplished.

All schemes of financial legislation recently proposed have been made subservient to that end, and it is hoped finally to bring forward a bill which will provide in a most conservative way for a more elastic currency system than the present

The sub-committee will keep in close touch with the President and the leaders in both houses from now until the convening of the special session, but no definite measare, it is said, will be framed for some time. All suggestions even that have been made thus far are purely tentative, for there are many differences of opinion between members of the Senate and members of the House which must be dismissed before any measure can be promulgated with any reasonable surety of success.

stative Cannon of Illinois, who support as Speaker of the next House will be almost absolutely necessary to the passage of the bill, will be one of the first to be consulted, and his views, it can be said will have a most important bearing on the final drafting of the measure.

Senator Aldrich said after the conference The Republican members of the subcommittee of the Senate Finance Committee who recently met for an informal conference at Warwick, R. I., talked with the President about financial conditions and the need of legislative changes. No bill has been drafted or agreed upon, and hone will be until after the fullest consultation with our Democratic associates of the sub-committee and all the members of the Finance Committee.

is, however, our purpose to have bill in readiness for presentation to the Senate at the beginning of the extra session, if one is called in October or November We are hopeful that a bill can be agreed upon and reported that will receive the approval of both houses of Congress and rd prompt and efficient relief to the business interests of the whole country."

The four Senators who constitute the Republican membership of the sub-committee. Platt of Connecticut, Aldrich of Rhode Island, Allison of Iowa and Spooner of Wisconsin, left here about 7 o'clock this ught them here vesterday. They went to Warwick, Senator Aldrich's home, where it is said they will continue to confer about the bill for several days. Secretary Shaw, it was announced to-

Digit, will come to Sagamore Hill to-mortow. Secretary Hitchcock of the Department of the Interior also will be a guest at Sagamore Hill.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13 .- Although the conference yesterday at Oyster Bay between President Roosevelt and Senators Aldrich, Allison, Platt and Spooner was held for the purpose of discussing the proposed financial legislation and the ratification of the Cuban reciprocity treaty. it had special reference to the date of calling the extra session of Congress. It was given out semi-officially some time ago that the extra session would assemble on Nov. 9, but there is now a good chance that the session will be called some time

October. While it is the plan of the leaders in the Senate Finance Committee to bring the inancial bill before the extra session President Roosevelt's decision months ago call Congress together before the regular ime had no reference to financial legisation. His sole purpose was to effect the atification of the Cuban reciprocity treaty by the Senate and the passage of an act of confirmation of this treaty by the House according to the agreement of last session, under which the Panama Canal treaty was ratifled and the session brought to

It is known in Washington that Mr. Roosewelt has not changed his mind since yesterday's conference, and that his purpose in calling the extra session is to have the reciprocity treaty disposed of. Had it not been r this treaty the President would have had no idea of calling Congress together before the regular date of meeting on the first Monday in December.

The President wishes to have Congress dispose of the Cuban question before the financial bill is taker up. He believes that a tariff debate will be precipitated by its consideration.

PRESIDENT FREED HIS FISH. RUTHLESS WAR IN MACEDONIA His Launch Cut the Line That Held Judge Arnow's Catch.

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., Aug. 13.-Judge Richard N. Arnow, a prominent Republican of The Bronx, is bewailing the loss of a fifteen-pound bass which got away from him on Long Island Sound vesterday, with the assistance of President Roosevelt. The Judge and a friend went out in a rowboat off Twin Island trolling for bass. They had fished for more than an hour without a bite when the Judge suddenly felt a vigorous tug.

He knew at once that there was a large fish on the other end and asked his friend to help him land him, so the two men grabbed the line and tugged away at the fish, which showed himself several times. Judge Arnow declares that he was a bass nearly three feet long. The fish made a game fight, but the line held good, and the fishermen would have landed him, they say, if a launch, containing a party going ashore from a steam yacht, had not appeared suddenly and shot between them and the

The keel of the launch cut the line in two and the fishermen say they fell back in the boat and nearly capsized it. The Judge and his friend expressed themselves rather vigorously and then rowed over to the steam vacht and asked the sailors, lounging about the deck, who was in the launch.

"Why, that's President and Mrs. Roose velt," replied the jackies. "They've come up to inspect the Jacob Riis fresh air home at Twin Island. Didn't you see the President sitting in the launch?"

"Did I see him!" exclaimed the Judge Well, I guess I did. His trip has just cost me a fifteen-pound bass, the biggest fish I've seen this summer.'

MIDNIGHT ELECTION ROW.

Dr. Twigg Chased All Over His House to Prevent Him From Signing a Paper.

CUMBERLAND, Md., Aug. 13 .- The neighbors of Dr. William F. Twigg were aroused early this morning by cries of "Murder!" and "Robbers!" issuing from his home, and there was a rush to the place. They found that Dr. Twigg was being chased all over his house by J. Phillips Roman, a nephew of ex-Gov. Lowndes, and an anti-McComas leader, followed by Deputy Sheriff Aaron. The cries came from Mrs. Twigg and the children, who were terrified. Mrs. Twigg was knocked down in the rush and hurt.

Dr. Twigg had his leg hurt and was bruised. The flight was up the back stairs and down the front, Capt. Roman falling headlong down the latter. Twigg tried to lock himself in his office, but Roman broke through the door. He then prevented Dr. Twigg from signing the nomination of David A. Robb, a McComas man, for State's Attorney, and Deputy Aaron succeeded in serving the writ which Dr. Twigg tried to avoid.

Both David A. Robb and F. Brooke Whiting, the latter anti-McComas, claim the nomination for State's Attorney. Roman is a Whiting man. Dr. Twigg had Roman arrested this evening for assault. He demanded a trial by jury. Twigg says he will also bring civil action against him for $25,000 damages.

Roman is a rich young lawyer, and is a son-in-law of James Clark, a millionaire distiller and brewer. Twigg this evening signed the Robb papers in spite of the mandamus. Whiting will take the matter to court.

SHANGHAIED FROM SAVANNAH? Gov. Terrell's Nephew an Alleged Victim

State Department Investigates. SAVANNAH, Ga., Aug. 13 .- The State Department to-day asked the United States District Attorney here to take steps against the men suspected of having shanghaied young Joseph Terrell Rucker, nephew of Gov. Terrell of Georgia and other young men from this port, on the British bark Kambira. Warrants were issued for the arrest of Capt. Harry Olsen and John Kelly, the bark's shipping master. Others said to be implicated are being sought by the United States authorities

The bark left this port one month ago for Santos, and will make the trip in fifty days without touching other ports. The British authorities have been notified and arrests will probably follow. The other boys said to have been taken on the bark are Willie Coppage of Rome, Ga., and John Seag of Savannah.

The bark lay in this port for more than two months. ENGLAND MAY TAKE A HAND. Statement of Her Plan as to the Trouble in the Balkans.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN LONDON, Aug. 13.—Replying to an inquiry by Earl Spencer, Liberal leader in the House of Lords, to-day, the Marquis of Lansdowne, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, said that it had been hoped that the insurrectionary movement in the Bulgarian peninsula had been abated permanently, but this hope had been disappointed.

A serious recrudescence of the trouble had taken place last spring. The British Government readily admitted the claim of the Austrian and Russian Governments to deal with the question, but it made reservations, however, in case the proposed measures should fail. If they did fail he did not think that they could be greatly surprised.

The British Government recognized the fact that it was the duty of the Turkish Government to take energetic measures for the suppression of the trouble and to restrain the troops from committing any excesses. Advice of that kind had been given constantly to the Turkish Government, and the British authorities had every reason to believe that it had been taken to heart. During the last three days the Government had received a circular from the Turkish Government announcing that considerable progress had been made in the execution of reforms and in the punishment and imprisonment of soldiers who had committed excesses. Courts-martial for the trial of the offenders had been instituted in various places. Sir N. G'Connor, the British Ambassador, had telegraphed on Aug. 4 that the military commissioners were inquiring into the charges that had been made against the Turkish authorities and on Aug. 9 he stated that all the authority of the Turkish Government would be used to prevent further excesses, to the danger of which the Porte Decides After All That Only Three of the Government's Fleet of Eight Revenue Cutters Shall Carry Passengers to the Yacht Races-A Misunderstanding With Mr. Cortelyon's Department?

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13 .- Secretary of the Treasury Leslie M. Shaw will attend the specially invited friends and will view the great contest, or series of contests, from will not send troops into what is regarded the deck of the Onondaga, the crack vessel of the revenue cutter fleet.

Mr. Shaw, having spent the greater part of his life in Iowa, where prairie schooners are the only nautical craft, and those out of date, doesn't pretend to know much about yachting, but he is interested in the coming match from the broad standpoint of American patriotism. He is thoroughly patriotic, and the element of international rivalry appeals to him. Although attending the races in his official capacity, Mr. Shaw will not wear the uniform of a revenue officer, but will be a plain-clothes man. The Secretary has talked yachting more than anything of this fleet, has been appointed Viceroy else for the last week.

The Attorney-General of the United States, in a formal opinion, declared that the supervision of the races, in order to keep the course clear in the interests of good sport and public safety, belonged of law, if not of right, to the new Department of Commerce. This duty has heretofore been attended to by the Treasury Department, and the ordering of the revenue cutters to guard the course still falls to the Secretary of the Treasury. Secretary Shaw has, therefore, personally supervised the promulgation of orders to commanders of the several vessels and has made it known that a strict observance of the rules of the road on the days of the races is to be enforced.

On Tuesday, Secretary of Commerce Cortelyou gave out a statement that these rules were about to be promulgated by to carry cameras. his Department, and he added that as soon as the Secretary of the Treasury should select the revenue cutters to carry them out the plans would be complete. Mr. Cortelyou did not know that Sec. retary Shaw had, several days before, designated the cutters and personally issued the orders to the fleet of eight vessels Cards had also been printed in several colors permitting fortunate holders to go on board the cutters for the purpose of viewing the races. In past years these cards have either been merely printed, with no signature, or printed and signed by the chief of the revenue cutter service.

This year Mr. Shaw decided to effect a change. He has always impressed his subordinates with his close attention to details in the Treasury Department, and he made no exception when the arrange-ments for the yacht races were to be made. He insisted on signing all the cards with his own pen, and he was busy for several days and nights in placing his signature to some 1,500 or 2,000 cards.

The Secretary's signature, although not a long one, is somewhat sprawling in style and covers not a little space. The cards are of three colors—red, white and blue a different color for each of the first three races. If the Rejance wins three straight as the Secretary hopes she will, it will not be necessary to print new tickets of a different color. The three colors of the American flag, he hopes, will be enough to do Sir Thomas up.

After Mr. Shaw had signed all the tickets. however, he decided that only number of them should be issued. day he promulgated an order, which was published in The Sun this morning, say-ing that the Secretary of the Treasury had reserved for his own use and the use of his friends the cutter Onondaga, that the Gresham had been reserved for the use of the Collector of Customs at New York. and that nobody except newspaper re-porters would be allowed on any of the six other vessels except the Algonquin.

The Secretary was very busy sending out red tickets to his friends. were marked "Onondaga." R are good for the first race only. devote other days to the signing and distribution of the whites and blues.

The real way to see a yacht race is from one of the revenue cutters. They can go where the excursion boats cannot. They keep close to the facers, and as the Government or somebody stocks well up with good things to eat, drink and smoke, a trip on a cutter on yacht race day is ideal. In past years the cutters have overflowed with "guests" of the Govern-ment. Every man with an inch of pull seemed to be able to get a pass. The public without pull paid from $5 a head up and war prices for food on the excursion fleet.

Secretary Shaw's decision to restrict the number of boats carrying passengers to three, one of which he keeps to himself and one of which he turns over to the Collecto of the Pert, is bound to cause a lot of heart burnings. But the order is out, and those that do get on the cutters will have plenty elbow room. The invitations hard to get, but if a man succeeds in landing one he may be very sure that Uncle San will take good care of him and the Treasur officials and his companions on the trip

MAN KILLS THREE AND WOUNDS

A SCORE IN WINFIELD, And Is Himself Shot Down by a Policemar -His First Victim the Bandmaster at an Outdoor Concert-Others, Persons Who Were Listening to Music. WINFIELD, Kan., Aug. 13 .- A frightful killing occurred here to-night at 9 o'clock while Caman's Band was playing its weekly concert in the main street of the town to a crowd of 5,000 people. Gilbert Twigg. a crazy man, 30 years of age, opened fire on the crowd with a double-barrelled shotgun loaded with bullets. As a result four persons are dead, three are dying and twenty are wounded, perhaps five or six fatally. The dead are Sterling Race, a carpenter; Dawson Tillotson, a barber; Bog. Bowman, a carpenter of Oxford, and Gilbert Twigg, the man who did the shooting and was himself killed by Officer Nichols.

The injured, as far as known, are: Mrs. John Ballard, shot in the neck; James Clarkson, back and arms; R. E. Oliver, shoulder and back; Cyde Reed hip; J. B. Story, chest and knee; William Wilkins, knee; Charles Thomas, knee; Charles Baird, arms: Port Smith, head; Elmer Farnsworth, bowels; Otis Carter, head; A. Bourdette, scalp; Elmer Davis, head; Claude Wagoner, shoulder; Samuel Compton, arm and leg, and Ben Ridgeway,

The band bad just finished playing a waltz when Twigg stepped out from an alley half a block away and, deliberately taking aim at the bandstand, fired two shots. Oliver, the bandman, fell at the first shot. The crowd, not realizing what had happened, rushed toward the crazy man, believing that there had been an accidental shooting of some kind. As the crowd closed in the crazed man discharged two more shots at them, causing a scattering. With the crowd fleeing, the man fired at random in every direction, until Officer Nichols confronted the lunatic and fired a a bullet into his head. Before he expired the demented man drew a revolver from his pocket and fired a shot into his own body, hastening his death. The dead and injured were by this time scattered all over the street, and the frightened people believed that the shooting was coming from several directions. It was fully half an hour before they realized what had happened and recovered sufficiently to care for the injured. Gilbert Twigg was a miller by trade and was commonly referred to as "Crazy"

Twigg, but no one thought him dangerous. DEATH ON GRAND UNION PLAZZA.
